If you tune in to Eggheads next Wednesday, you'll be lucky enough to witness a challenging team from Norwich in action.

"It was a great experience," said Yes Sarah! team member Phillip Bourne.

"We weren't nervous as the Eggheads, staff and Jeremy Vine were so welcoming and made us feel really comfortable."

The five men are all members of Norwich's Phoenix Male Voice Choir, who originally applied for the show to gain some publicity.

Their application to the show was accepted, and the group of five, plus a reserve member, travelled to Glasgow for filming on July 11.

"We did not disgrace ourselves," the Helleston resident continued. "For a lot of old boys we did rather well."

Mr Bourne's team was made up of other choir members; Eddie Kidd, from Dereham; Chris Hirst, from Taverham; Jerry Elliot, from North Walsham; Keith Webster, from Poringland; and reserve Colin Morgan, from Norwich.

"It was good to get six old boys together for a night out," continued Mr Bourne. "We arrived on the 10th for filming the next day, and then left the day after."

The team had a good range of skills to combat the knowledge of the Eggheads. "Chris was particularly helpful," said Mr Bourne. "He was a history teacher so was very useful. We also had engineers, Eddie was a hotel manager and Colin now works on the board of trustees for an Aspergers charity."

"Everybody's geared up to watch and record it," Mr Bourne added.

"It was very, very enjoyable. I'd definitely go back if they let us!"

The show is on BBC2 on September 28.
